

Haifa's Story

From Adversity to Empowerment

A Journey of Hope

Meet Haifa

> One of the greatest gifts has been the opportunity to teach others at House of Life.

Growing up, Haifa faced family hardships that could have easily defined her future. Instead, she chose to pursue education, creativity, and a life of purpose.

Today, she not only supports her family through her work but also empowers other women by teaching them new skills at House of Life.

WHY THIS STORY MATTERS

Haifa's journey is one example of how investing in women creates lasting change for entire families. Through Zarqa Life Center—a community where women find belonging, healing, education, and opportunities to build brighter futures—stories like hers become possible.

Before

Where the story begins

Disabilities, difficulty, determination

As a teenager, my father left our family, and life became very difficult.
I have a twin brother who has disabilities and lives in a care facility, and my sister also has disabilities. My mother carried so much responsibility that she was often overwhelmed, and later she suffered a stroke.

Growing up, I learned that life could be hard, but I was determined not to let my circumstances define my future.
I stayed focused on my education, studied administration, and held onto the things that always brought me joy—sports and art.

"I was determined not to let my circumstances define my future"

A Door Opens

Everything changed because of an opportunity

Creativity has always been part of who I am.

As I continued developing my artistic skills, I discovered that they could become more than a hobby. They could become a way to support my family while doing something I truly loved.

I began creating handmade crafts and jewelry, and every new skill gave me greater confidence in what I could achieve.

Creativity became a way to support my family.

“Empowerment grows when we share what we have learned.”

New Beginnings

Today, I work as a kindergarten teacher, and outside the classroom I continue creating handmade jewelry, crafts, and face painting for local bazaars.
These creative opportunities help me contribute financially to my family while allowing me to use the talents I have always loved.

One of the greatest gifts has been the opportunity to teach others at House of Life.
I love helping women learn how to make jewelry and handmade products. Watching them discover new skills, grow in confidence, and realize what they are capable of is one of the most rewarding parts of my work.

My greatest joy is helping others discover their confidence.

- She found creativity.
- She found opportunity.
- She found a way to help others.
- She also used her talents to help support her family.

A New Future

Looking back, I realize that every challenge I experienced helped shape the person I am today.

I have learned that creativity can provide not only an income, but also confidence, purpose, and hope.

The greatest joy for me is seeing other women believe in themselves. Every time I teach a new skill, I am reminded that empowerment grows when we share what we have learned.

Today, I have the privilege of helping others build brighter futures—just as I worked to build my own.

Every challenge I experienced helped shape the person I am today.

What began as an opportunity became:

Friendship.

Purpose.

Confidence.

Hope.
