Creativity helped me discover purpose and confidence.

After failing Tawjihi, Rima felt disappointed and unsure of what the future held. Looking for something to fill her time, she enrolled in a computer course at Zarqa Life Center.

There, she discovered a passion for art, the confidence to believe in herself, and a purpose she never expected.

WHY THIS STORY MATTERS

Rima’s journey is one example of how investing in women creates lasting change for entire families. Through Zarqa Life Center—a community where women find belonging, healing, education, and opportunities to build brighter futures—stories like hers become possible.

Before

Where the story begins

Lost, disappointed, unsure

My story with Zarqa Life Center began at a time when I never imagined my life was about to change. I had just finished Tawjihi, and honestly, I had failed.

I felt lost, disappointed, and unsure of what to do next. I didn't know where I belonged or what my future would look like.

During that time, a friend and I decided to join a computer course at Zarqa Life Center. At first, it was simply a way to pass the time and get out of the difficult place I was in.

I had no idea that one small decision would lead me somewhere completely unexpected.

"What began as a way to pass the time changed my life."

A Door Opens

Everything changed because of one class

As we spent more time at the center, we began to love being there.

Even when we didn't have a class, we still found ourselves coming back because it felt welcoming, safe, and full of life.

After a while, I decided to try something I had always loved—drawing.

That class changed everything.

The teachers didn't just teach me new skills. They encouraged me, believed in me, and saw something in my artwork that I hadn't seen in myself. When they displayed my paintings at the center, I experienced something I had never felt before.

For the first time, I believed that what I created truly mattered.

For the first time in a long time, I felt capable, valued, and hopeful.

“For the first time, I believed that what I created truly mattered.”

New Beginnings

As my confidence grew, so did my desire to keep learning and giving back.
The center became part of my everyday life. My friends and I would spend time there even when we didn't have a reason to come. It had become our second home.

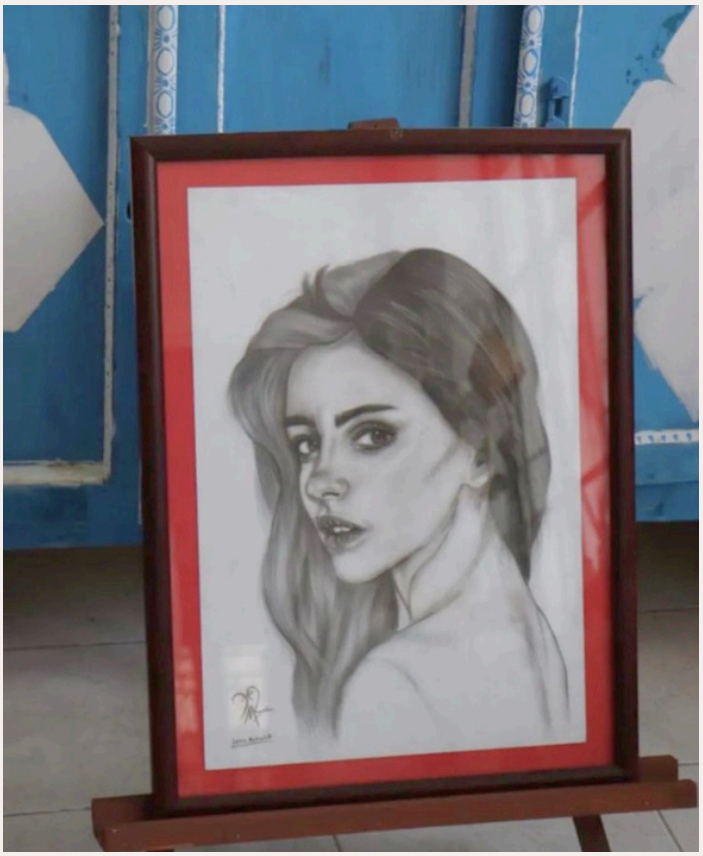

Then came an opportunity I never expected.

I became a volunteer, and before long, I was invited to teach glass painting to others. Being able to share what I had learned was an incredible experience. I realized I wasn't only learning new skills—I was helping other people discover their own creativity and confidence too.

Little by little, my confidence grew, my personality became stronger, and I learned to express myself without fear.

I wasn't just learning—I was helping others discover their confidence too.

- She found creativity.
- She found confidence.
- She found strength.
- She began helping other people discover their own creativity and confidence too.

A New Future

Today, I look back and realize that Zarqa Life Center gave me so much more than classes.
It gave me confidence when I had lost it. It gave me opportunities when I wasn't sure where my future was headed. Most importantly, it helped me discover who I am.

I didn't just find a place where I could learn.
I found a place where I belonged.

Zarqa Life Center didn't just become a center to me—it truly became a home... a House of Life.

I didn't just find a place where I could learn. I found a place where I belonged.

What began as a computer class became:

Friendship.

Purpose.

Confidence.

Hope.
